

November 15, 2011

Dear Sir/Madam,

Saxony Economic Development Corporation would like to express our appreciation for your cooperation and support to our activity in Japan.

We are pleased to inform you that we will hold a seminar under the title of “Newest innovations for semiconductor industry from Saxony and Japan for better energy efficiency”. As you know Saxony had been the most industrial developed area in pre-war Germany. And after the reunification it has been developing in automobile, semiconductor business field and especially it is now called “Silicon Saxony”. Upon the support from the Federal Government of Germany Saxony has succeeded to develop semiconductor business.

We are very much pleased if you can utilize this opportunity to make a new business in Saxony or to get a clue for collaboration with companies in Saxony.

The seminar will be followed by a reception where speakers and participants of the seminar will get together, including members of Saxony Economic Development Corporation and semiconductor / electronic companies from Saxony.

We do hope that you will be able to spare the time to share this occasion with us.

Sincerely yours,
